

TO WHOMSOEVER IT MAY CONCERN

I, Archana Mullapudi, Professor at MITWPU, Pune, feel proud to recommend my student, Suhaani Agarwal in her application for M.S. in Computer Science at your university. I have been her instructor for C, Data Structures, Ecommerce during her second year, and I have observed her for 2 - 3 years. I believe that my observation of Suhaani over this duration has given me sufficient insights about her both on the academic and personal fronts.

Undoubtedly, Suhaani was one of the brightest students in her batch, scoring 96% in the courses I handled for her. She was active and hard working in class and completed assessments on time. These are some of the qualities absolutely necessary in a student aspiring to pursue higher studies, especially in such a competitive setting.

She was also an application-oriented person who was never content with mere theoretical knowledge. This was clear from the interest she showed. She is always the first person to try something new or help somebody. I have seen her tutor her friends in the past years and she not only helped herself but others too. However, she easily loses confidence in herself as she is at times a bit sensitive to certain situations.

With her passion for learning new things and persistent improvement in academics, I have no doubt that Suhaani will secure an admission to pursue Computer Science, the most coveted course in your university. I wish her all the best for her future endeavors.

Sincerely,

Prof. Archana Mullapudi
