Four Decades of Educational Excellence

TO WHOMEVER IT MAY CONCERN

I, Vinaya Nimbolkar, work as a Professor at MIT World Peace University. I have known Suhaani for the past 2 - 3 years. I found her to be an agile, inquisitive and disciplined student who topped in class when I taught her Digital Electronics, and Statistics. She certainly is a good team player who is diligent and cooperative. Suhaani has a keen eye for designing websites, apps and she is also working to make a mark in animation and has created and edited a number of videos along with voiceovers and visual effects. She has also taken part in internships related to Computation, which has amplified her desire to pursue Master's. Further, her active participation in industrial visits and workshops aided her to obtain practical experience of how industry operations were executed, it also helped her to enhance her interpersonal skills and learn communication techniques pertaining to industry operation executions. She is known to be a down to earth person whose heart goes out to the under-privileged. In fact, she has the desire to be closely associated with the rural community; she willingly led a life of an ordinary villager and survived with the bare minimum supplies during the village immersion programme organised by the college. Suhaani took initiatives to feed the labourers who were unexpectedly displaced as an aftermath of the Covid-19, the global pandemic. Suhaani is definitely a suitable candidate. I strongly recommend her for the admission into the Master's program in your well known university. With the right opportunities she is capable of making a difference in this world as a compassionate professional.

Sincerely,

Vinaya
